

Visitor Information for the Neuro4D Conference 2025 in Mainz, Rhineland-Palatinate, Germany

Mainz is the state capital of Rhineland-Palatinate with Roman roots. It is located on the Rhine River, next to the junction with the Main River, hence the name. Mainz has many famous sights and is also a wine capital offering many distinct grapes and flavors. We like to give you some hints that might be interesting for you to follow-up on the internet when planning of your trip.

City Sightseeing:

There is <https://mainz.de/en/> with interesting information. There are the “City Walk: Compact Mainz” tours, which you can do by yourself or you can book one of the guided tours at Mainz Tourism, Mainz City Guides, or www.best-of-mainz.com (only in German) or go by ‘tram’ with the “Gutenberg Express”, a train like vehicle driving through town.

Mainz has a picturesque old town around the Romanesque St. Martin’s Cathedral, a bishop’s residence. There is St. Stephan’s Church with its famous blue windows by Marc Chagall, creating an unmatched atmosphere. The Gutenberg monument awaits you at the “Gutenbergplatz” across from the cathedral and the brand new and very entertaining Gutenberg Museum can be found in walking distance at Reichklarastraße 1. There are also Roman relics and monuments to visit, for example the Roman Theatre at the train station with the same name, the Drusus Stone, and the Isis- and Mater Magna sanctuary in the shopping district. The Landesmuseum is newly renovated back at its original historic location and shows multiple interesting exhibitions.

Wine Tasting and Tours:

You can visit the “Sektellerei Kupferberg”, where you can visit the vast cellars and see the beautiful building on the Kupferberg. Recently the brewery ‘Eulchen’ has located here and offers craft beer and food with amazing views over Mainz, or visit the production site of Kuehn, Kurz & Rosen craft beer brewery.

You can also book a WineWalk via www.winewalk-mainz.de, or a culinary walk via www.miomente.de/mainz/genuss-kategorien/kulinarische-stadtfuehrungen/.

Great Food:

There are many nice places to eat in town. Our conference hotel is one of them!
Please do call for reservations!

Recommended alternatives are:

Steins Traube: Fine dining of nouvelle cuisine in local flavors with one-star Guide Michelin and just around the corner.

Bellpepper – restaurant in the Hyatt Regency – beautiful view of the Rhine River and great flavors in small portion

La Gallerie: modern nouvelle cuisine restaurant with local wines

Geberts Weinstuben: high quality and regional specialties in a cozy ambience

Easy Bites, no reservation needed:

Weinhaus Wilhelmi: typical quaint wine parlor for flair and some home-style food.

Eisgrub: Original and rustic local brewery with pub food German style

Gloeckle: German pub with well-priced dishes of local food and beer tasting

Wilma Wunder: light and vegan dishes in a 'more female' ambiance

Michel – Das Weinhaus: typical regional wine tavern with local specialties that fit a wine tasting

Kamin: ‚Flammkuchen‘ in many varieties - a speciality from the Elsass, France

Al Cortile – great Italian food and friendly service at medium prices

Tours To Do and Things To See:

At the Rhine Waterfront between the Hyatt Regency and Hilton Hotel, you can board sightseeing boats to a number of destinations e.g. from the KD-Linie or Primus-Linie which take you to the UNESCO Cultural World Heritage Site: The Middle Rhine Valley (direction Koblenz/Köln), with its picturesque villages like Rüdesheim, Assmannshausen, Boppard, Bacharach, Oberwesel, St. Goar and the 'Germania' monument ('Niederwalddenkmal'), the Lorelei and the many ancient castles.

There is also an easy hiking tour starting via Assmannshausen (arrival by boat) taking the lift up to the forest, walking to the 'Niederwalddenkmal', taking the lift down to Rüdesheim and coming back by boat, which offers spectacular views and takes about three hours in total. Tickets for the entire trip are available at certain boat companies. You can best start from Bingen (train station) and walk to the very picturesque waterfront park, which has a range of small places to eat and drink wine. Ask for the 'Ring Ticket' at the 'Binger-Rüdesheimer' sales kiosk.

By car, train, or boat you can visit nearby:

Wiesbaden, capital of Hessen and one of the oldest health spas of Europe with many hot springs and great shopping. Wiesbaden was spared during WWII, as the future American Headquarter in occupied Germany, so you have many beautiful original buildings.

Frankfurt am Main called 'Mainhattan' for its skyscrapers, with its famous 'apple wine quarter' 'Sachsenhausen' (try the 'Zum gemalten Haus' for a typical Frankfurt traditional food and apple woi experience, also available alcohol free) and its impressive sky scrapers including the European Central Bank.

Oppenheim, a little historical town on the Rhine known for its wines, lures you with its underground maze of passageways and cellars.

Rüdesheim, the little wine town on the other side of the Rhine is a tourist magnet, with shops for all the 'German' kitsch you can possibly imagine and with its cable car up to the 'Germania' or 'Niederwald Denkmal' monument, offering a great view over the Rhine valley.

Kloster Eberbach, the monastery near Eltville (27 km) with wines from all over the state of Hessen and its restaurant with home-brewed beer is also a place which might be of interest. The inside of the monastery is well-known from the movie "The Name of the Rose", based on the book by Umberto Eco. The monastery offers tours in different languages. However, please check beforehand that there are no closed events that might block access to the general public! Here, you can also have a nice walk in the luscious forest with its well signposted paths of various distances and a free mini-zoo.

Via the Tourist Service Center Mainz (www.mainz-tourismus.com, www.gaestefuehrungen-mainz.de) you can book a winetasting tour in Mainz, a tasting and hiking session, or a wagon tour in one of the surrounding vineyards.

You can also rent a car and travel up the Rhine to the Mosel in less than two hours with its steepest wine yards in Europe and windy river bed. If you need more information, please don't hesitate to ask.

The Neuro4D Team wishes you an enjoyable stay in our area!
